As the year begins to come to an end, the students are still hard at work before the celebrating begins. We are close to finishing some of our units of work which will allow me to complete the reports for the year. Report Cards are an important tool to demonstrate a student’s understanding and application of learned content. I am looking forward to celebrating the achievements of students and staff at the CWA Christmas Tree play on November 29th.

Letter from School Leader Josh to the P and C

On behalf of the Karara students, we would like to thank you for helping us to go to camp. We enjoyed camp and had lots of fun. We went swimming every day and got dirty on the mud course which was a lot of fun. We also went on a bush walk, went abseiling and watched movies with students from another school. We were up early every morning and were very tired when it was bed time. The meals were very yummy. Thank you so much for helping us go.

Classroom News

Student of the Week

This week’s Student of the Week is Coby Cherry. Coby received Student of the Week for being polite to others and always starting his day by going out of his way to say Good Morning to the teachers.

New Bubbler

The P and C will be funding a new school bubbler which will be located next to the multipurpose courts. This will ensure the students do not have to travel over to the school to get a drink of water.

School Values

This week’s emotional management skill is ‘Accepting Differences’. Students have been learning the value of accepting differences between themselves and others. Often we are too quick to judge someone; accepting differences allows us to find similarities which can create mutual respect and friendship.
